To Whom It May Concern:

To put this Letter of Recommendation in perspective, I shall tell you that, as a professional member of ASID for 25 years, my firm has been in the business of providing quality Interior Design to a wide variety of very discriminating clients.

The "short version" of this recommendation is that I have never experienced a more competent contracting firm, period.

The "longer version" of this recommendation is that I have recently completed three exacting, demanding projects spanning a period of several years in which I have partnered with Johnson & Hughes. Each of these long-term clients of either our firm or Johnson & Hughes, entrusted us with a very prized possession – the extensive remodeling of these projects or additions to their fine Home. Each of these projects was complex and exacting, and required a high level of experience, professionalism, problem-solving, dexterity, and the ability and skill to execute a high of quality of craftsmanship concluding in absolute Client satisfaction.

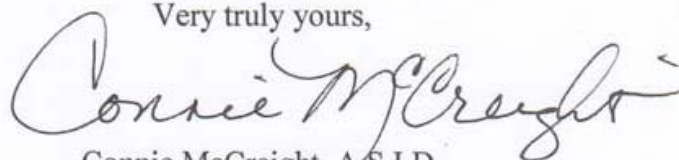

I have worked with many contractors and sub-contractors in my career. I have never before encountered this level of responsibility and professionalism. They are the "complete package". They are an undeniable pleasure to work with, and they "make things happen".

If you ask me for a pivotal statement, I give you their answer when faced with the constant challenges of our profession – When I ask "can you do this?" – most contractors or sub-contractors will say "no, you can't do that". Johnson & Hughes responds "OK...we can make that happen". This statement delivers with follow-through.

In conclusion, I most highly recommend the firm of Johnson & Hughes. You will be fortunate indeed to work with this honorable, accomplished, solid, competent and resourceful firm.

I invite your call for further recommendation.

Very truly yours,

Connie McCreight, A.S.I.D.
